Dear Visitor,

welcome to the Haus der Geschichte Baden- Württemberg, the state history Museum.

By following the yellow line you will cover a set course through 300 years of the history of our state that has been laid out for your convenience. Here you will find information about the past, present and future of this state and discover new, unusual, and important things about South Western Germany. You will surely be attracted by the 1,400 original objects, 1,000 photographs and numerous scenes, films and information panels along the way, to tap nothing of the museums holding itself.

Our exhibition aims to convey you in an exchange of ideas with the past so that all participate in an understanding of the present. Apart from anything else, this agreement with our history and our perception of this project in South Western Germany is designed to be suggestive, evocative, evocative, and informative.

This guide will introduce you to the exhibition with the three sections of the site. This is followed by a chronologically arranged presentation of 300 years of state history, including a rich variety of special exhibitions and thematic sections. The Museum of the Political History, located in the theme Park, where current issues are also dealt with through historical computer scenes. Finally, enthusiasts in the field of modern history can be inspired to gripe in a still another way with the state and its past.

In the year 1700 there were hundreds of territorial hierarchies (and sometimes even plundered), large and small, from what is today the territory of Baden-Württemberg, many points of light. Today, however, it is not only the different lights and architectural styles (e.g.) in between what the imperial (state) cities (today) of the Holy Roman Empire. This "paradigm change" has led to a permanent exhibition. From "Weisse Merz" to "Berliner Mauer" in the "Zweite Welt" - this unique Baden-Württemberg-ARC pays homage to the lights which are typical of the state. Falling into the hands of the "ideas and associations", the ARC introduces the exhibition themes.
